

[SYSTEM AND METHOD FOR DETERMINING FORMATION SLOWNESS]

Abstract

The invention provides techniques for calculating velocity from sonic signals with an improved signal to noise ratio, accuracy and certainty of result. Multichannel coherence measures are calculated from sonic transmitter signals and averaged to produce an average coherence measure. The formation slowness is determined from the averaged coherence measure.